

OPERATION LONDON BRIDGE

Operation London Bridge

Whilst there is no reason to suggest that plans for the death of a senior royal family member are likely to be implemented any time soon, the Queen herself has recently made no secret of the fact she is slowing down, as most 95-year-olds would be. LRALC is part of the “London Bridge” plans which will be implemented when the Queen passes, hopefully in a considerable time in the future. The planning group consists of all tiers of local government and LRALC will work alongside the county councils and districts and boroughs to pass on relevant instructions and advice when the time comes.